“ Irene was a dear friend to us for the five years that we have lived in the Villas at French Creek. She was one of our closest neighbors, only being two doors away from us. She greeted us the day we moved in and gave us the low down on this community, which saved us considerable time, effort and frustration. From that day on, Cathy and Irene shared at least two or three telephone conversations daily. Add their playing cards, and shopping trips; They were, pals. A number of those phone calls between them were heads up on deer traffic , If the deer(s) come from our direction, Cathy would call Irene and Irene would call Cathy when they came from her direction. Not many deer got by these two.
