“ Jim, was a wonderful and kind neighbor. Whether assisting me in helping up a sick loved one after a fall or snow blowing my driveway in the cold and wind without me ever asking, Jim never made me feel I was bothering him. He would give me great tips on how to repair something and the best casinos to visit. I will miss him sitting in his den across the street watching out the window while I did stupid things like back my car into my trash cans (thinking nobody saw it) and then have him tease me about it. We often shared good laughs on my outside yard (bad) conduct. (Unbeknownst to me he could read lips). I never had a conversation with Jim without him mentioning his children or grandchildren. His voice always reflected the pride he had for them and the love he had when he spoke of his loving wife, Gina.

Of course, it is his wonderful smile that I will always remember when thinking of Jim.

Thank you for allowing me to share these thoughts and may the good memories of Jim as a loving husband, father and grandfather give his family and friends some comfort during this sad time.
