“ I met Jan when she and her horse, Crimson, moved to Mingo Stables in Royersford. She was a quiet, strong, and caring person. I always enjoyed riding with Jan & Crimson, either in the ring or on the trails around Mingo Stables. My sincere condolences to her brother, Bill, and her many friends.

“ I first met Jan through a Chester County riding club and we enjoyed many trail rides with our group of horsey friends We continued to meet as the lunch bunch for many years to come right up to the recent present.

One grateful memory is when I had double knee replacements at Bryn Mawr Hospital and Jan being a nurse there insisted on arriving at 6 a.m. and staying throughout the surgery to offer comfort.

I was also one of the lucky ones who were part of the week long riding vacations in Wyoming, California, Arizona and even Italy.

These were our happy "girl" trips.

I remember and admire her quiet, steady strength as she faced the many challenges in her later years. Jan was such a classy lady. She will always be in my thoughts.

“ Bill, I'm so sorry for your loss. As one of Jan's friends, I also feel the loss and miss her so much. Jan was a quiet but strong woman. We had so much fun together. When she had Crimson at Dick's place, since I am nearby, I knew I could plan on riding every day at 3:00. She was a creature of habit that I could count on! We knew we shared the love of routine and would laugh about it sometimes. We went on riding trips with other friends to Wyoming, Arizona, and Italy. Jan was always agreeable when making plans. In Arizona, the horse assigned to her became unrideable and the only thing available to replace him was a mule. Although his gaits were uncomfortable, Jan viewed it as an opportunity for a new experience instead of an inconvenience. That's the way she was. Jan was part of a group of women who get together once a month for lunch and chatter. She has left a large hole in that group and we miss her presence there as well. Although generally quiet, she would always have something to add to the conversation and laughter. I will miss her for a long time.
