“ We met Pam Carroll this year, a lovely executive whose fine work has given us excellent footing in our efforts to teach the community about issues of concern to women and girls. Our hearts go out to Pam. It's just around this point in our lives when we begin to let go of old sibling rivalries and start really enjoying each other's unique qualities. Unlike parents, siblings really can be friends, knowing more about us than just about anyone else. I'm sure it must be such a loss. You are in our thoughts and prayers.
