“ Larry and I were best friends. We grew up together and lived close. We have been out of touch since the 1980's. I used to go out on the milk truck with is dad on Saturdays when I was a kid. We used to go to the Saturday night church dances together and then walk down to McDonalds on Lancaster avenue and get hamburgers. I think they were about 15 cents in the 60's. I remember one summer going with his family Mother, Father, his sister Sand and Larry to the shore and boating. R.I.P. Larry
