“ It is with a sad heart that we mourn the passing of our Mom. At age 94 Mom lived a long and happy life. She was the Matriarch of the family; the rock we relied upon to make everything right. There are so many memories that one short note could never do her justice. She mended our skinned knees, bandaged our minor cuts and bruises, mediated our sibling squabbles, sent us to our room when we needed it and when necessary meted out swift correction. Fortunately, I like to believe that correction was not to often. Mom came from the Greatest Generation where it was believed the Mother's job was to raise the children. It certainly could not have been easy raising four boys (especially us) but, Mom did so with skill, compassion and most importantly, a whole lot of Love. She beamed at our accomplishments and gave encouragement when we had failures. It was our goal to make Mom proud of us and I have to believe that we succeeded to make her proud. I will miss you dearly. I love you. ~ your son, Tom
