“ I remember when he lost 2 of his brothers close together. I told him if that happened to me, i'd be on the ground with ashes on my head. He said he wouldn't because he simply said, I know where they are at, I know I'll see them again. His calm, cool rational way about him, is something that ALL his grandchildren can use in their lives right now and forever. He never went off like a firecracker. He looked at a subject at both sides before making a decision. I'll always remember the skits the Pairs & Spares had at the Kimberton Grange. God comfort all the family.
