“ Ma chère Susie,

Nos chemins se sont croisés il y a bien longtemps et je ne t'ai jamais oublié.

Reposez en paix.

“ Susan and I met at a connect group at Fairview Village Church of the Nazarene. We got together for social events and potlucks!

Susan was a great support as the social events for the group were planned. She was always game for what we came up with.

When we did our Thanksgiving potluck, we had over 50 people breaking bread together and she sat towards the center. She loved being in the middle everyone and talking to people. I always viewed her as a social butterfly.

Susan joined us as we did the corn maze at Varner Farms where you wander around the gather pieces of the puzzle that form the map of the maze you are walking.

One of my favorite memories with Susan was when we were acting out a murder mystery called “A Taste for Wine and Murder!” She volunteered to play a part but I wouldn’t give her the script until the day of the murder mystery.

Susan was such a good sport. She played Marilyn Merlot! Her character was crowned Wine Princess at a festival 5 years before and then went on to become a Hollywood movie star. She came all decked out and fancy for her part.

I will never forget how great she at making everyone smile. She really got into her character!

I will miss our talks.

“ My sister was beautiful and so artistically gifted. She touched so many people in so many different walks of life and we are all blessed for having her in our lives.

Susan was (and still is) a dear, sweet and beautiful soul and friend. I was so incredibly blessed to have known her and to have had her in my life. She was a strong support and presence and will be sorely missed this side of heaven. But oh, what a reunion we will have one day! I know she is dancing in heaven now with our Lord and Savior Jesus.
