Tom's hobbies revolved around family activities, including lake and mountain sports in Vermont, and enjoying the water life at their former home on the Chesapeake Bay. Tom's home life was centered on his family, and the many domestic and farm animals raised through the years. His greatest joys came from working outside around the home (especially on his tractor), but he also enjoyed traveling to out-of-the-ordinary places with his wife.

His gentle, humble nature and happy soul will be missed by many.
