“ Growing up Wade was more than just my best friend. We were like twin bothers, unseperable. We have a bond that has been built into the very fabric of our lives. We seem to even feel each other's presence. I remember when he got a job driving a truck and working night shifts. He would need to sleep during the day. His mom could go down and try to wake him. She couldn't get him to stir or arouse regardless of what she tried. When I would come over, as soon as I would enter the room or gently sit by the side of his bed, he would wake up. Because of his capacity to love and his enduring friendship, perhaps there will be nights that I may wake as he sits quietly at my beside saying "Hi" to an old friemd from his paradise free of all ills. My heart and love are extended to Ellen and family. God bless you.
