“ My name is Hobbes. You may know me as John Barbour. Billy Blewitt and I had a unique bond as he did with so many others. He was a fraternity brother and one of my dearest Ursinus friends. We have many. I have been really broken up to hear of his loss. But my memories and connection with him transcends mortality. There are so many deep conversations we shared. Most recently after an alumni weekend he met me for a Starbucks coffee where we caught up and broke down life as we were both experiencing. We spoke nearly 2 hours reminiscing and challenging our futures as we always had. This was several years ago. When in college and playing football we both got injured during summer practice. In our idle time we both made a stupid decision and got in trouble with the school. As a result we bonded and leaned on each other. I value his friendship as I do with my own family. In the end I know Bill wanted us to enjoy life. To embrace our situation and to always strive to make life better. For ourselves and those we love and those around us.

To his family I want you to know he would never do anything to hurt you. He valued his family and friends the most in his life. He taught me to do so as well. Never give up hope!

I am spending a weekend with my Dad as I lost my own Mom two years ago and my Dad and I need to create another memory. Who knows how many more we have. SO I WILL NOT BE THERE. I believe Blewitt is ok with my decision. While I will miss you all my love is there. My heart is there.

Believe in hope. He believed in it. So do I. Thanks Bill Blewitt for being my friend. I will miss you on Earth but you are never gone from my life.

Love Always,
HOBBES.

“ Although we had lost touch in recent years, Bill was a friend since junior high - he had been there for me as a great support through many important times in my life and I'll never forget his friendship, his sage advice, his infectious smile and the many adventures shared. He is the reason I live in Florida, because he invited me for a visit almost 20 years ago to cheer me up when I was sad. I am so sad for this huge loss - keeping Bill's family and children close at heart.

“He will truly be missed. Have not seen him in a while.... (Ursinus College) life often takes you away. But he was a connector and always had the unique ability to make anyone feel like it was just yesterday. Chuck Moore 🙏
